TEACH YOUR CHILDREN SAFETY

Protection of their children from accidents is the most vital duty of individual parents.

That is the crisp-given opinion of Mississippi Safety Council Officials to emphasize the importance of the Council's campaign in April for child traffic safety.

"If annual National figures repeat themselves, 4000 sets of parents will be tragically deprived of their roles as mothers and fathers to youngsters under 15 this year because of traffic accidents," bluntly declared Lonnie Sweatt, of Gulfport and President of the State Safety Council.

Captain Seay, of Jackson, Vice-President of the safety group, pointed out that the Council names inadequate safety training on the part of parents as an important factor in many of the annual traffic deaths among children under 15 years of age.

Captain A. S. Windham, Executive Director of the Council, declared flatly that "about one-third of the children from 5 to 14 years old who are injured or killed in traffic accidents each year were playing in the street at the time."

"In altogether too many of these cases," declared Windham, "the child had never been taught the danger of these actions."

Sweatt declared that "while parents plan and hope for a brilliant future for their children, they sometimes neglect the one phase of education that will insure their own children's living both as a person and as a personality."

"One of the hardest facts that parents have to face is the realization that sooner or later their children will become independent and venture into traffic alone," Sweatt further explained.

"Placing the blame for the annual toll of children killed in accidents on the shoulders of the motorist, the unpredictability of children and Fate is an ostrich-type method of not wanting to face the problem," bluntly declared Sweatt. He said parents may be legally absolved from blame, but the moral responsibility for the safe future of their children is ever with them.

The safety officials urged parents to impress the following rules on their children: (1) Remember always that streets are for cars—and not for scooters, tricycles, roller skates or play; (2) Cross the street at the corner only, and wherever possible at a corner with a traffic signal light or traffic officer on duty. Look both ways, then for turning traffic, and cross only when the way is clear; (3) Never forget that bicycles are subject to the same rules regulations that govern automobiles. This includes careful observation of signs and signals.

What is justice? What is justice? When we think about it, we realize that the justice of the law, the law and the D. A. Attorney, the cases and the court, the verdict, the justice was present.

It might be a good thing for every would-be lawyer to be compelled to write a 10,000 word thesis on plain "justice" before being admitted to the Bar. Maybe from this we could judge his merits as to whether he is qualified to handle the laws of our land to the benefit of the multitude rather than swing verdicts to the few who are in a position to pay for "favorable decisions."

Addison wrote: "There is no virtue so truly great and godlike as justice." And by the same token, there is no fibre so truly low and miserable as injustice.

In Psalm IV: 18 we read: "But the path of the just is as the shining light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day."

UNDERCOVER GIRL AT THE STAR THEATRE

THURS. & FRI. 19-20

Razored action describes "Undercover Girl" at the Star Theatre Thursday & Friday 19-20.

Two veteran co-stars in the thriller department, Scott Brady and Alexis Smith, make this story of a young detective who manages to save her at the last minute from an ugly death and how she falls in love with him are major ingredients of the fast-moving yarn.

Authentically backgrounded by Aubrey Schenck, the new film was photographed by Carl Guthrie.

Directed by newcomer Joe Pevney with a fast touch for the timing of speedy action and dialogue, "Undercover Girl" is the story of a beautiful young woman who becomes a police woman in order to track down a dashing leader who murdered her father, a police officer. How she becomes involved with a young detective who manages to save her at the last minute from an ugly death and how she falls in love with him are major ingredients of the fast-moving yarn.

TRAFFIC DEATHS UP IN MARCH, '51

Incomplete reports from the Accident Bureau of the Mississippi Highway Patrol reveal that 39 persons were killed on Mississippi streets and highways during the month of March. This is three more than were killed in March of 1950, when 36 persons were killed. This brings the total killed by traffic accidents in Mississippi for the three month period to 111.

The Highway Patrol investigated during the month of March over 300 accidents with 187 persons injured bad enough to go to a hospital and over two hundred thousand ($200,000.00) dollars worth of cars and trucks torn up.

Colonel T. B. Birdsong, Commissioner of Public Safety, stated, "Even though our record in Mississippi is very bad and alarming—we are still doing better than other parts of our Nation. The Mississippi State Patrol has been doing a good job in the safety of our roads while the number of accidents has decreased, & 111 killed is compared to 123 for the same period last year. Therefore, as bad as our record is, we are still doing better."

Mississippi's progress since World War II has been phenomenal. The cash income from our farms increased 107 per cent while the income from our mills and factories increased by 111 per cent. That is better than the nation or the rest of the South.

And as agriculture and industry have advanced in Mississippi, Southern Bell has moved ahead too—economic progress and the telephone go together like salt and pepper.

Southern Bell, for instance, had only 115,876 telephones in Mississippi at the end of 1945; now there are over 200,000—a gain of approximately 90

WANDERINGS

By George Hall

Waveland folk are still buzzing with talk about the very successful Fireman's Ball which was given last Saturday in the old Hill Store. The party, sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Waveland Fire Department, was a financial success but was a great place for hundreds of people to sit and visit. Highlights of the evening were songs by local talent and a big square dance which was expertly executed by those taking part. The ball was preceded by a parade and several meetings. The Waveland fire truck and many private cars and individuals took part in the parade which was most colorful and noisy. Cars began to line Coleman Avenue as early as five o'clock Saturday evening and a steady stream of people began flowing into the portals of the former Hill Store until there was scarcely room for anyone else in the building. Yes the Fireman's Ball was a gala affair.

President of Southern Bell Issues Statement

The following statement was made Saturday by Hal S. Dunn, President, Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company:

The Southern Bell Telephone Company has received a request from the Communications Workers of America (CIO) for opening of negotiations looking toward a new contract for the 44,000 non-supervisory employees who are represented by the Union. The Union has said that bargaining sessions begin on April 30.

The existing contract between the Company and the Union runs until June 3, and, as provided by the contract, the Union has given 60 days notice of desire to negotiate a new agreement. The present agreement was executed in 1948 and has been modified twice to provide for wage increases.

Among many other items, the Union has requested a general wage increase. It has been our policy over the years to pay wages that are in line with the wages of other workers in the communities which we serve whose jobs are comparable to telephone jobs. Only in this way can we do justice to the fine people who make up our organization and continue to attract and keep employees on the job, never with the expense of young workers. "Outrage" is striking for nothing.

Mr. Dunn is a newcomer to the Company, having recently accepted this important position. He has been numerically every bit as successful as his predecessor, Mr. Clegg, for the week.

WAYNE ALLISON TO LEAD BAY HI PTA

Wayne Allison was elected president of the regular meeting of the Bay Hi PTA which was held Tuesday April 10 at 7:30 p.m. Other officers elected were Mrs. John Heaton, vice-president; Mrs. Theodore Hause, treasurer, and Mrs. Paul M. Hause, secretary.

Mr. S. J. Mauffray presided and the meeting was opened with a prayer by Mr. Clapp.

Mr. Miller reported that the committee had selected "Mother Nature" and "Old Tales and Legends" as the programs for the Carnival parade.

From these two titles one was selected by membership vote at the next meeting.

One hundred dollars was donated to the school for the purpose of a movie projector and other visual educational aids.

It was decided to present a set of books to the elementary school. A committee of teachers with Mr. Gandy Perkins chairman will select the books.

A booklet for evaluating comic books was purchased and mailed to each teacher of the school. This booklet gave grades for the funny books and the reason for placing them in these categories. It will be given to the parents to help them in guiding their children's reading in this game.

The room count was won by the 11th grade with a count of 11.

Following the meeting, a social hour was held in the home ec. room with refreshments served by Mrs. Irwin and Mrs. Heath.

The list of a good farmer is how much work he does during the next six months.

STANISLAUS-BILOXI HI TIE GAME, 11-11

Biloxi High School and Saint Stanislaus went into an extra inning Tuesday afternoon with a tied score 11-11.

Game was called at the end of the eighth inning on account of darkness. Stanislaus scored two in the first, one in the second and by bunching six hits, one a triple in the fifth scored seven runs.

Mather started on the mound for Stanislaus and gave way to George D'Alta after three and one third innings after giving five walks. D'Alta gave up nine hits and nine runs in 3 1/2 innings. Bill Huvor finished the game by striking out the two men who faced him to finish the game.

Freche of Biloxi went five innings giving up a walk and 11 hits. Jim Hurey finished the game allowing one walk and four hits.

WOODMEN CIRCLE, 167 INITIATES NEW MEMBER

Mrs. Lessye Brent of Biloxi, district manager and National representative, was guest speaker at the meeting of the Grove 167 circle of Woodmen of the World at the home of Mrs. Anna Palmisano on Ulman Ave. on Thursday of last week.

Mrs. Theodore Johns was initiated into the Grove at this time.

Following the initiation a refreshment course of ice cream, candy, cakes and sandwiches was served by the hostess. Plans were discussed and made for the district meeting which will be held in Biloxi in the early spring.

In the games played by the group, Mrs. Rosa Betz won first prize and the consolation prize was awarded to Mrs. Leontine Ziegler.

An anonymous letter, by the way, is just a sign of anonymous intelligence.

SAINT CONSERVATION NEWS

By JAMES T. BISHOP
Soil Conservation Service

Six farmers, cooperating with the Hancock County Soil Conservation District have placed bee-hives in their pastures. One bee hive per acre of clover will increase seed yields twelve fold. White Dutch clover selling for $1.00 per pound in extra 50¢ per acre of seed will mean more money in farmer's pocket.

Crimson clover interplanted with Sericea lespedeza gives my cattle practically all the year pasture, according to Herbert Brown, of Catahoula Community.

Brown, Cooperator with the Hancock County Soil Conservation District, planted Sericea lespedeza in April of 1949. In October of 1949, an application of basic slag and potash was applied and 20 pounds of re-seeding Crimson clover broad cast over the Sericea lespedeza. Brown has grazed his cattle on this pasture practically all the year for two years. When asked what he thought about the combination, Brown said, "it suited me so well that I am clearing more land to plant in Sericea lespedeza and reseeding crimson clover." Cattle are grazing these two clovers now.

Connie Mack is 88 years old but despite this fact he still frequents the games and takes more than a keen interest in them. He has stepped down, involuntarily to turn over the management of the Philadelphia Americans to Jimmy Dykes. Connie tells close friends that he is completely happy with the new arrangement, but it is generally known that he is broken hearted over it. A remarkable candid camera shot of Connie, sent to me by a friend, reveals Connie immaculately attired, viewing the workout of the Americans in Florida—and in tears. One hand is lifted to his face as to hide the flow of his emotions from onlookers. The friend who sent me the snapshot and story made one provision—that I would not publish the picture. He said it wouldn't be fair to the old veteran to expose a revealing proof of his private interlude with wistfulness. I therefore agreed with my friend.

Mack, of course, has no longer any authority to direct the club on the field, even though he is President. His chief job now is as a spectator. Occasionally, he ventures a remark such as, "That young player is too far to the left." But his remonstrances go almost unheeded. It is said that he is still as polite and gracious as ever to reporters and photographers but the smile is gone from his face and the sparkle from his vivid blue eyes. He's a lonely old man pushed out of his job just when he thought he was doing all right. At night he sits in his hotel lobby, quite solitary, reading his paper. Mack is no longer "The Boss," so the little knot of people who once surrounded him is no longer there. On rare occasions his still handsome face lights with happiness briefly. That is when Dykes asks Connie's advice on some phase of the play, then Connie gives it volubly.

Connie Mack is a different man to the one from the once-enthusiastic, exuberant baseball tycoon. He is restless, alone and hungry to be active. How sad.

How nice to have Charles Farrell and Janet Gaynor back again in "Seventh Heaven." A great play and a great team-up. Charles is still very handsome, as those of you who saw it know, although his hair is thinning and very white. Janet doesn't seem a day older than when she did the movie version in 1927. She is still very beautiful. Many requests reached the studios for a return of these two, which resulted in a compromise on TV. Both Farrell and Miss Gaynor, however, prefer to leave the talkies to a younger generation. Janet is content to be Mrs. "Adrian," who is a dress designer in Hollywood. Farrell lives in retirement on a ranch in California. Incidentally, why doesn't someone suggest "Seventh Heaven" to the local Little Theatre as a prospect play—or has it already been done?

It says here:—"You can so wear bangs with a round face, you keep them short and wear them on a slant." As the maid in "Born Yesterday" said: "There should be a law." For my part you can't wear bangs no matter what kind of a face you have. I detest them! They just take all the dewy-ness and softness away from a lovely face and add something that I can only describe as "metallic." Of course, that's just my opinion.

Trifles & Treasures

By PEGGY FOOTE

Ladies aren't usually interested in baseball—well, not vitally, anyway—but I understand this column has a few male readers so I will relate a little story concerning Connie Mack which touched me more than a little.

Connie Mack is 88 years old but despite this fact he still frequents the games and takes more than a keen interest in them. He has stepped down, involuntarily to turn over the management of the Philadelphia Americans to Jimmy Dykes. Connie tells close friends that he is completely happy with the new arrangement, but it is generally known that he is broken hearted over it. A remarkable candid camera shot of Connie, sent to me by a friend, reveals Connie immaculately attired, viewing the workout of the Americans in Florida—and in tears. I could scarcely believe my eyes recently when I read where a young couple in their early twenties were seeking a home for their 2-week-old baby because, "We don't love the baby" they claimed.

Contrarily, the story of a mother of twenty-four children ran in the same sheet. She not only has tended her own vast brood, but has instituted a sort of unofficial servicemen's club to act as a guiding spirit to other mothers' sons.

Mrs. Charles Clarke is 56. She arises at 4:30 a.m. to pack school lunch pails. Then comes an assembly-line breakfast followed by the other usual house hold chores.

Mrs. Clarke started her impromptu career at a roadside stand—part of the establishment—befriending soldiers. A soldier could not pay for anything at her stand. She took sandwiches and hot coffee to GI's doing patrol duty at the highway crossroads.

She has a personal reason now for maintaining her record. One of her sons is serving in Korea, another is in training at a Texas Air Force Base and two more are in 1-A.

I have often wondered purely thru curiosity, how "Hadacol" got its name. (Not like I wonder how so many countless dozens name their homes "The Pines" or "Twin Pines," etc.) and at last I have found out.

The 56 year old State Senator, Dudley LeBlanc, from Lafayette, La., had a business previous to the discovery of his cure-all product. The business was called the "Happy Day Company, Inc." The name "Hadacol" is condensed from HA for Happy, DA for Day, CO for Company and L for the first letter in LeBlanc.

A humorous story concerning LeBlanc tells of an experience with his first employer. When Dudley finished college he turned to salesmanship to earn money to send his four younger brothers through school, first he sold shoes, then tobacco. He lost his second job when he replied to a congratulatory telegram sent to him by his boss.

LeBlanc's fateful reply was: "Obviously you are not consistent, sir. You say I am the best salesman in the South. Yet my salary remains at $17 a week."

He promptly hunted a new job. But, I'll wager he is worth far more today than his mercenary boss.

"We have no right," says Helps, "to expect to meet many sympathetic people in the course of our lives. Or," he concludes, "to even dream of gaining the understanding of others." How very true! I would like to relate a story concerning a poor, disillusioned soul who imbibed quite frequently and fluently in "the cup," as it is playfully known. It is a good idea to add a spoonful of water to the water when you drink so that the water will prevent the lid from becoming

Here is a wonderful substitute for cream—and surely more economical. Grate one apple, add 1/2 cup sugar and one egg white. Beat well all ingredients until light. Add melted butter for whipped cream. Another trick for quick topping is to beat an egg white with 2 tbs. of jelly in top of double boiler until stiff—over boiling water, of course.

Must Pay $5 Tax On Farm and Household Employees

Jackson, Miss., April 9.—Farm and household employees are required by Revenue Act, Collector of Internal Revenue, that they must report wages and pay Federal social security taxes on those farm and household employees who were brought into the old-age and survivors insurance system on Jan. 1, 1951. Whether or not a farm or household employee's wages are subject to the tax depends on the number of days worked for the employer and the amount of cash earnings.

The application blank, Colonial Pattern, will be available at all Local Boards.

Colonel Patton suggested that registrants concerned please delay asking for details about the test until Information Bulletin No. 100, to be issued in April, will answer all questions that a registrant contemplating taking the test might ask. The poster giving general information and the bulletin of information giving specific details and sample of the test, will be available at local boards and also at the colleges and universities throughout the state, as well as at community centers. However, the State Director repeated that the application blanks can be obtained only from the local boards.

The new plan was announced by the President and Major General Lewis B. Hershey, Director of Selective Service, last week. Student deferments will be based upon either capacity to learn as demonstrated by the results of a nationwide test, or upon scholastic performance as evidenced by class standing. These two criteria are variable which may be raised or lowered to either increase or diminish the number of students in training, as the national interest may require.

The tests will be given on May 26, June 16 and June 30 (1951), to college seniors and others contemplating entrance into graduate or professional schools, and to other students who have already begun and who plan to continue, their college studies.

"High school seniors and other prospective college entrants will not be permitted to take the test until after they have commenced their first year of college work."

To be eligible to take the Selective Service College Qualification Test, an applicant:

(1) Must be a registrant who intends to request occupational deferment as a student;

(2) Must be under 26 years old at the time of taking the test;

(3) Must have already begun and plan to continue his college or university studies (the applicant need not be in a four year college but his entire course must be satisfactory for transfer of credits to a degree granting institution);

(4) Must not previously have taken the test.

The tests, to be administered by the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey, will be given at approximately 1,000 examination centers throughout the United States and its Territories. The registrant will be required to pay only for his own transportation costs to and from the testing center.

A subsidy never threatens the moral fiber of business men even if it wrecks that of farmers and old people.

MISSISSIPPI EDUCATORS
INTERPRETATION VO

Jackson, Miss.—The number requirements for the interpretation of high schools, sponsored by the Mississippi Department of Education, was increased to 100 students.

The action was taken at a meeting of the voting delegates of the MSEA called to clarify measures amendment to accreditation for the annual meeting of the voting delegates.

The previous action had been at striking out a requirement that schools have at least 60 pupils age daily attendance to be accredited.

Under a motion presented by H. P. Heidelberg, Clarkdale gates interpreted March 15, 1951, mean that schools already under accreditation could not be restored. The new, however, blanketed in high schools which have already applied for accreditation of the 1950-51 school year.

The delegate body also made it clear that the removal of number requirements in accreditation did not mean that new high schools, which under previous regulations, must have at least 75 students in average daily attendance, grades 9 through 12.

Presiding over the meeting was J. M. Ewing, recently elected president of the MSEA. He is president of the Lincoln Junior College, Wiggins.

Greenville—Governor Sam Lumpkin agrees with Gov. Faubus that Mississippi must maintain segregation of the race regardless of cost or consequence.

Lumpkin, now Lieutenant Governor, said he would "never compromise on the issue of segregation" and said he advocated "fair treatment and advantages for our negro population."

He said, "If we destroy segregation in Mississippi, a chaotic condition will result which will work to the detriment of both white and negro race."

Informal Meeting of Board LWV Monday Morning

Members of the Board of the League of Women Voters met informally for a cup of coffee and discussion of League affairs Monday morning with Mrs. Erroll Horner at the home of Mrs. Eribert Samuel, retiring president of the local league.

Mrs. Horner, organization secretary of the National League of Women Voters, has just returned from a three month trip to California, Arizona, New Mexico, Arkansas, Alabama and Mississippi in the interest of organizing new professional leagues in these states and gave an absorbing account of her trip and of league problems and activities in other sections.

A discussion of projects planned by the Local League for the coming year was also held with constructive suggestions by Mrs. Horner as to the feasibility and advisability of the planned programs.

This revealed the fact that several of the suggested projects for the coming year were state rather than local activities and narrowed the program for this year to the survey previously announced under the aegis of the White House Youth conference, the survey of Hancock County and the perpetual calendar to be evolved and published by the Bay St. Louis League.

Mrs. Horner left for Jackson on Monday afternoon after which she expected to attend the State Conference of the League in Meridian on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Members of the board attending the gathering at Mrs. Samuel's home were Mrs. Paul Miller, president; Mrs. Louis Maurus, Mrs. Erle Kirkpatrick, Mrs. John Husband, Mrs. Paul Gaudet, Mrs. Elizabeth Croft, treasurer; Mrs. C. D. Blair, Mrs. Joseph Schaff, Mrs. C. McDonald and Mrs. John Hebert.

Music ratings went to Gerald Kimble, solo; Sal D'Angelo, David Treu and Gerald Kimble in a corset. Jimmy Williams won an Excellent bass solo.

Sidewalk Soliloquies...

by The Beachcomber

Traffic accidents are horrible and getting worse all the time . . . not many months ago a Negro hit-and-run driver struck and fatally injured an eighteen year old boy . . . he was subsequently brought to trial, convicted and fined $500.00 and thirty days in the county jail . . . a small price, indeed, to pay for a human life . . . this past weekend the situation was reversed, in regard to color . . . a white man driver ran over two colored women who were walking along the highway . . . one of the women died the same day as a result of injuries received, the other, injured, less seriously is recovering . . . the accident was investigated by traffic officials, who placed the driver under arrest . . . what the outcome will be we do not know . . . but we do know that something should be done about this type of driving along our highways before many more innocent people are killed or maimed for life . . . we are horrified when we hear of the casualties in a major armed conflict, yet we shrug our shoulders and practically think nothing of it when thousands of persons die every year under the wheels of automobiles driven by incompetent and drunken drivers . . . drivers who should be put under the jail, not in it . . . we've just got to doff our hats to the women of the Waveland Firemen's Auxiliary for the manner in which they handled the Firemen's Ball held in Waveland last Saturday . . . they knew what they wanted, went out after it and got it . . . unofficial reports are that they cleared the magnificent sum of $1800.00 . . . well, take it from yours truly they can certainly be proud of a job well done . . . the L&N Railroad's crack train, the Hummingbird passes through here going north at 12 o'clock noon and again going south at 1:45 p.m. . . . just an hour and forty-five minutes of each other . . . really some hummin' . . . asked a business man the other day, how was his business . . . he replied, "well, rather slow, but should pick up when the new bridge is started" . . . he may be right, BUT . . . WHEN will the new bridge get started? if at all . . . and where will it be located? that question is still being asked . . . and often . . . no one seems to know any more now than they did several months ago when the controversy was started . . . our guess is that it will remain where it is . . . and that is as it should be . . .

Colmer Expects Shelby Reopening, Navy Base Activity

Washington—Rep. Colmer (D-Miss.) said he believes the Defense Department will ask Congress shortly to authorize reopening of Camp Shelby, Miss.

He told a reporter his information is that the department will submit to the House armed services committee soon a proposed military public works bill which, if passed, would authorize various military installations.

"I am hopeful and have reason to believe that Shelby will be included," Colmer said.

In addition, he said, the bill likely will include some additional activities for the Navy Store Base at Gulfport.

Colmer also said he understands the Navy is interested in acquiring the old maritime school at Pass Christian for use as a communications center.

He said the Navy had expressed interest in the school as a place to train officers or Waves but that it apparently is too small for such purposes.
